Berscht's Store Visited By Burglars

The J. V. Berscht Store was broken into in the early hours of Sunday morning by a gang of burglars. The burglars were discovered and frightened away, after having gathered together a large quantity of goods.

About 3:15, Sunday morning, Constable Kercher heard a noise in the store, and on investigating, he found all the doors were locked and everything, seemingly, in order. Not being satisfied, however, he immediately proceeded to have Mr. Berscht aroused and on returning from this duty, he saw two men running towards a car, parked in the alley near Brooker's garage. He gave chase and fired several shots at the fugitives, who took to the prairie. Another man was seen running in a different direction.

On going to the store, Mr. Berscht found a large quantity of goods packed and ready to carry away. He stated, however, that nothing was missing, although a quantity of goods were damaged.

The Provincial Police were called and a search of the district made, but without result.

The car was seized and found to be owned by a man named Scheer, of Calgary, who has been missing from his home since Saturday.

Up to going to press, the police have been unable to locate the culprits.

It is expected that the stucco work on Knox Church will be completed this week.

On Sunday, May 18, the C.P.R. are making their semi-annual change in the train service. On the front page will be found the new schedule.

Calgary Power Co. Propose Waterworks

At the council meeting held last week, Mr. Planch of Calgary Power gave the council an outline of a water and sewerage scheme for the town. He stated that his company would be prepared to install water works and sell water on a meter charge of $3.50 to $4.00 per month. Hydrants which could be used for fire protection and flushing, would be charged at a flat-rate of $125.00 per year.

Mr. Planch stated that it would be necessary to have a sewerage system, that roughly, a sewerage scheme including disposal plant, would cost the town approximately $35,000, which, on sale of debentures, would probably work out at an annual payment of $2,400.

Mr. Planch also stated that the Calgary Power Co. would ask for a ten year franchise, and pointed out the cost of the water system which they would undertake would be approximately $55,000.

Mr. Planch explained to the council, the general working-out of the scheme, and answered numerous questions.

At the same meeting, the council made a grant of $100.00 to the Didsbury Agricultural Society for the improvement of the fair grounds. A grant of $100.00 was also made to the Salvation Army Old People's Home.

The first league baseball game will be played on the local diamond, Friday evening, 16th May, 6 p.m. Crossfield provide the opposition for the local boys.

A whist-drive and dance will be held Wednesday, 21st May, in Community Hall. Good music. Come early and support the community baseball team.

Premier Brownlee To Speak At Didsbury

Premier Brownlee and A. B. Claypool, candidate for Didsbury constituency, will speak at a public meeting in the Opera House, Thursday evening, 22nd May, 8 p.m.

This will mark the opening of the election campaign in Didsbury constituency, and no doubt, the electors will be much interested to hear the premier enunciate his policy.

Crossfield 8, Didsbury 2

Didsbury journeyed to Crossfield last night for their first Rosebud League Baseball game and returned home defeated to the tune of 8-2.

The score does not indicate the merit of the play all. The sixth inning proved very disastrous for the local boys, the southerners crossing the home plate five times through two very costly errors. Crossfield play here tomorrow night and Didsbury hope to turn the tables.

Farmers, housewives and school children need not consider themselves too early in making plans for their share of exhibits in the Didsbury Fair, 30th July. In the livestock entries, fancy work, paintings, flowers, manual training and art work particularly, preparation of the little details may be well rewarded when the time for judging comes around. Make this 27th annual exhibition the biggest district fair the town has ever known. One of these days, the directors may have to make plans for a two-day fair. What do you think about it?

Catering To Tourists

Approximately twenty millions of dollars will be expended by the Governments of the three Canadian prairie provinces in the construction and maintenance of good roads this year, not to mention several more millions which municipalities will devote to other roads not included in the system of through Provincial highways and main market roads. It is a lot of money. It represents the largest single item of expenditure for any one service. It means an outlay of at least ten dollars for every man, woman and child in Western Canada.

A very considerable portion of this vast sum is being expended on the assumption that, quite apart from the benefits that will directly accrue to our own people by reason of these good roads, they will be the means of attracting an ever increasing volume of tourist traffic from other Provinces and the States to the south, and that these visitors will bring much business and profit to our people through the purchases and expenditures they will make in this country. In a word, the avowed object of a goodly portion of this expenditure is to encourage visitors to tour the West.

Good roads, admittedly, are essential if we are to develop a large tourist business. But, in themselves, they are not enough. These prospective tourists can find good roads, possibly better ones than we can offer, much nearer home, if a fine highway over which they can speed in comfort and safety is all they are looking for. They will come to Western Canada to enjoy a new, a virgin land. They come expecting something different. What is Western Canada going to provide?

Are we going to allow our highways to be disfigured—as they have been south of the international boundary line,—by unsightly billboards and advertising devices of various kinds, defacing the landscape, obscuring the scenic beauties our country has to offer, oftentimes confused by drivers with the legitimate road directions, signs, and an eyesore to all? Governments and municipalities can, to a large extent, control the placing of such signs on the highway right-of-way, but individual property owners must co-operate by refusing permission for the erection of billboards and the plastering of signs on private property and buildings.

Our cities, towns and villages should seek to make their respective communities attractive to the visitor, and special attention should be devoted to the approaches to the main roads leading into and out of each settlement. The smaller the place, the more important it is that the surroundings be right, because they are noted to a greater extent by visitors than is the case in larger centres.

Community spirit and enterprise should find expression in having all places in which visitors are interested, and must visit, as, for example, hotels, cafes, garages, post offices, as clean, neat and efficient as possible. Gasoline and oil companies are setting a good example in making filling stations attractive in appearance, especially in larger centres, with rest rooms, wash rooms, comfort stations, etc. They are out to give service. Other businesses may well emulate them. Even the smallest place on a through highway can support such services.

The main highways through towns and villages should be clearly marked, and the location of such utilities as the post office, the telephone exchange, telegraph office, auto camp, prominently indicated.

Above all, courtesy should be the watchword of every citizen. It should be remembered that they are strangers you are entertaining in your midst. What to you is commonplace, is to them strange and new. They desire information; then go out of your way to supply it. Make them realize how welcome they are so that, when they depart, if they carry away no other impression, they will at least, remember your town as one where the people were cordial, kind and helpful.

The millions of dollars that are being expended on highways is your money. Its expenditure is designed to benefit you and your community directly and indirectly. Make the most of it. This you can only do by individual and community co-operation.

A Modern Fog Alarm

Partridge Island Signal Derives Power From Diesel Engines

The Partridge Island light and fog signal station at the entrance to St. John, N.B., harbor, said to be the first steam-operated fog alarm in the world, will in the near future derive its power from modern semi-Diesel engines. In adopting this modern power the station may again lay claim to priority, for it will be the first of the kind in Canada. Other stations depending on oil engines have only internal combustion motors utilizing gasoline as a starting mixture and operating on kerosene as a regular fuel. The light on Partridge Island was established in 1791, and the fog signal in 1859.

Not Properly Qualified

Toronto Professor Says Universities Not Equipped To Study International Relations

Canadian universities are not sufficiently qualified for an adequate study of international law and international relations, Prof. Norman MacKenzie, of the University of Toronto, told the House of Commons committee on industrial and international relations. He knew of no university in Canada, he said, which had a library equipped for the intensive pursuit of these studies.

The committee was considering a resolution sponsored by Miss Agnes MacPhail (Prog. South-east Grey), calling for the establishment of chairs and scholarships of international relations in Canadian universities. There was a field in Canada for improvement in this respect.

Prof. MacKenzie thought parliament might well consider aiding either by grants or other means.

If the libraries were available Professor MacKenzie thought, the studies would be developed by the universities and the students themselves.

Another suggestion he advanced was that competent professors and students in Canadian universities be given greater opportunities to observe the operations of international business.

ST. VITUS DANCE SUFFERER MADE WELL

Nerves Strengthened Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Time after time cases are brought to the notice of the public where sufferers from nervous troubles have been relieved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—where victims of St. Vitus Dance have been made well through the use of these pills after other medicines have failed to be of benefit. The reason for this is that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood—they make new, rich red blood and in thus banishing all impurities from the blood strengthen the nerves and make St. Vitus Dance impossible.

Mrs. P. Donnelly, Montreal, Que., is one more grateful mother who wishes to add her testimony to those already published. She says:—"My little girl, aged eleven, was a great sufferer from St. Vitus Dance. Several doctors prescribed for her without benefit. She was in the hospital for two weeks—still no benefit. I then saw an advertisement recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for St. Vitus Dance, so decided to try them. My little girl had only taken a couple of boxes when I noticed some improvement so I continued with the treatment till now she is completely free from the trouble and can enjoy herself as other children do. I can highly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone suffering from St. Vitus Dance or any other form of nervous trouble, for what these Pills have done for my daughter I am sure they will do for others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Modern Wolf

The wolf that used to sniff around the door now occupies an easy chair in the parlor, right next to the radio, and within easy reaching distance of the iceless refrigerator, the vacuum cleaner, and other necessities of life.

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. Under these conditions one of the best remedies that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and they pass away in the evacuations. The little sufferer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

Strikes In Canada Decrease

With One Exception Last Year Most Peaceful Since 1902

With one exception, 1929 was the most peaceful year in Canadian Labor since 1902, the number of workers affected by strikes and lockouts falling to 12,924, and the days lost to 153,936. Steady progress toward happier relations between employer and employee has been registered now since 1922, the number of workers affected being as follows: 1922, 41,050; 1923, 32,868; 1924, 32,494; 1925, 25,796; 1926, 24,142; 1927, 22,683; 1928, 18,238; 1929, 12,924.

The figure for last year was only nine per cent. of the 1919 total, the year of the Winnipeg strike. Toronto figured in three of the minor strikes of the year. The painters' strike involved 600 workers, and lasted 38 days, the time loss being 7,800 working days. The plumbers' strike involved 400 workers, lasted 19 days, the time loss being 7,500 days. The plasterers' strike involved 500 workers for 12 days, causing 6,000 days' time loss.

New Industry For Canada

Eighteen Varieties Of Soybean Can Be Cultivated In Dominion

Canadian farmers are finding a new opportunity in the cultivation of the soybean. During 1929 soybean oil and other products to a value of nearly $2,000,000 were imported by Canadian industries. Experimental work conducted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture shows that eighteen varieties can be successfully cultivated in Canada. It grows under essentially the same conditions as corn, and generally speaking, can be grown anywhere corn grows, and with about the same results.

Recreational Resources of Canada Compose a Loadstone Which Draws Millions Of Visitors

Canada's recreational resources are a national asset of the first order. They compose the lodestone which each year draws millions of visitors to the Dominion and they form a source of wealth which annually adds a large and rapidly growing item to the national income. There are, in fact, few records in the annals of Canadian development more interesting or more remarkable than that of the rise in importance of the Dominion's recreational features. Today the returns from these assets keep pace with those from such major factors as mines and forests.

Some idea of the extraordinary growth of holiday traffic may be gained from the records of touring automobiles entering Canada in recent years. In 1919 the number of cars entering Canada for touring purposes was 238,000 and during the ten years up to 1929 this figure had increased to 4,500,000. Aside from the phenomenal increase of motor tourists, railway and steamship lines each year add large numbers to the thousands who holiday in Canada. Tapping an even wider field than the automobile, these organizations have spread the Dominion's fame as a holiday land literally throughout the world.

The most casual traveller crossing the Dominion from east to west cannot but be struck by the sheer diversity of Canada's natural features. First there is the rugged Atlantic shore; then the great system of inland lakes, seas in depth and size; next a thousand miles of rolling prairie; followed by the great barrier of the Rockies, rivalling the Alps in grandeur; and finally the sea, bathing with its warm waters the far-flung Pacific coast. All these contribute to the glorious panorama of a transcontinental trip across Canadian territory.

The charm of the Maritime Provinces is not easily depicted. These provinces—Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and New Brunswick—are toned with the mellowness of age that captivates the visitor from newer regions. The snow-white lighthouses crowning the cliff that overlooks the sea, the white sail of the fishing smack seeking its sheltering cove, the quaint fishermen's cottages that straggle up the hillsides, the shaded inland roads and winding forest streams, the springtime mantle of blossom that clothes mile upon mile of orchard valleys—all these suggest the elements that blend to give the Maritimes a picturesqueness peculiarly their own. In this setting is found all that goes to complete the happiness of the holiday visitor—excellent facilities for motoring, boating, fishing, hunting in season, and all outdoor recreation.

Reaching from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the head of Lake Superior, a voyage of 2,000 miles, one of the world's great systems of interior waterways traverses Eastern Canada. Nowhere exists an interior water route more varied than that traversed in a trip up the storied St. Lawrence, touching at historic Quebec and busy Montreal. Leading on through the Thousand Islands and the Great Lakes, past Toronto, Niagara Falls and a dozen other centres of commercial or scenic interest, such a voyage reveals the heart of Eastern Canada and leaves a vivid impression not only of the natural beauty but of the business life of this part of the Dominion.

The Laurentian region—the huge horseshoe skirting Hudson Bay to the east, south, and west—is pre-eminently the country of forest and stream, of hunting, fishing, and canoeing, of great unexplored areas. Countless lakes and rivers form a network of dustless highways routing the canoeist through a hinterland where trout, bass and maskinonge, moose, deer and bear, stock a superb field for the sportsman.

The prairies are less familiar as a holiday region. Yet, for thousands of visitors, the fertile western plains with their endless miles of rippling grain present a scene of beauty and satisfaction to countless visitors. Beautiful summer resorts nestle on the shores of prairie lakes, and for the enjoyment of the sportsman few fields offer finer attraction than the hunting, in season, of prairie game birds.

For scenic splendour the Rocky Mountains have been declared by many experienced Alpine climbers to be unsurpassed. Majestic ranges, scarred by age and weather, rear their summits against sky of purest blue or bury their snow-capped peaks in fleecy clouds. Glaciers and waterfalls, emerald tinted lakes and wooded valleys combine to entrance the eye and the enchantment is increased by the alpine air fragrant with the scent of pine and fir. The mountains are noted for their big game—big-horn sheep, grizzly bear, Rocky Mountain goat, elk, deer, moose, caribou, black and brown bear, and mountain lion.

Canada's Pacific coast, with its fjords and inlets, is revelation to the tourist. Its moderate climate makes it an all-the-year-round playground for thousands, while its hunting, fishing, and other sporting attractions are unexcelled on this continent.

Taking into account the scope, the variety and the steadily widening renown of the Dominion's recreational attractions, there is ample ground for the view that these natural assets will, through their direct and indirect commercial effects, prove to be one of the major forces of Canadian development in the next generation.

An average of 3,000,000 persons are ill in the United States every day.

Monkeys trained to operate them are used to try out new types of parachutes in Japan.

Strange Blue Grass Thrives In Winter

Will Grow Under Adverse Conditions Without Cultivation

Experts from the United States Department of Agriculture predict that the strange winter blue grass discovered on an Oregon farm and believed by them to be the "lost grass" of Europe, may revolutionize farming and dairying industries.

The story of the grass is a farm romance. Similar to grass which disappeared in Europe a century or more ago, it dies down in summer, when other grass is green, but thrives in winter, when food for livestock is low. It forms a perfect turf, even under the snow.

Because the experts found it will grow under adverse conditions without cultivation, and will thrive in rainy regions, they view it as a solution of the problem of utilizing logged-off lands of the Pacific northwest.

Seeds for use in the Pacific northwest will be sold exclusively in Seattle by the Children's Orthopedic hospital. The agency was a gift of Mrs. E. E. Hanley, on whose farm the seed was found, and will be a source of permanent income for the hospital.

Yellow Journals In Shanghai

People Have To Be Circumspect To Avoid Publicity

The Chinese business or professional man who strays from the straight and narrow path usually reads all about his sins in the papers.

A survey made recently by military authorities indicates that there are more scandal sheets in Shanghai than any other city in the eastern hemisphere and probably in the world. One hundred and ten yellow tri-weekly newspapers are published in the Asiatic metropolis and are all devoted to printing news not fit to print.

To keep these pages supplied with information concerning the doings of Chinese who are in the spotlight, a large army of Chinese scandal mongers is constantly kept on the job. They appear at the most amazing times and at the most inconvenient places.

Queer Sight In Cuba

Trees Grow In Limestone Areas With Little Care

Huge trees growing without any visible means of support are one of the queer sights of the Zapata swamp of Southern Cuba, which is nearly 1,800 square miles in extent. Many varieties of trees, some 4 feet in diameter, are found growing in limestone areas where not so much as a single spoonful of soil can be gathered from an acre. The trees make a start in small pockets and holes in the limestone, where collections of leaves and disintegrated rock furnish them with cover for growth. In their search for food the roots stray about over the surface of the rock, finally plunging through holes to find sustenance in soil hidden deeply in the cavernous recesses of the coral stone.

The Canadian people have confidence in the Wheat Pool and the present condition of the market clearly reflects the success of the Pool, says Professor C. R. Fay, of the economics department of Toronto University. Professor Fay has just completed a survey of the western grain situation and will shortly proceed to England to examine the status of the Canadian Wheat Pool there.

"After my investigation I am a strong supporter of the Pool as it has functioned hitherto as a voluntary organization," he said. "There has been an attempt made in Saskatchewan to make it compulsory for farmers to sell their wheat through the Pool. I am strenuously opposed to that."

The fact that export trade was improving was another indication of improvement in the wheat situation, said Prof. Fay. Considerable attention was fixed on the American winter wheat crop. However, absence of rain there and only moderate improvements of exports have caused farmers to cease to worry on that score.

Talking over the general situation last year with both representatives of the wheat "trade" and the Pool, Professor Fay was convinced that North America had been most "bullish" in its wheat trading.

"Most emphatically the Pool was not holding out when the trade was selling," he said. "The Pool was offering wheat continuously all summer and fall at below Winnipeg prices in an effort to dispose of the wheat crop."

"But in order to compete with the unusual Argentine crop, it would have been necessary to sacrifice grain as low as 20 cents below the Winnipeg prices, which was unreasonable," he continued.

"The difficulty in 1929 was to move the limited quantity of high quality Canadian wheat to Europe, which was determined to depend on its own wheat crop. There is no question of a boycott of Canadian wheat," said Professor Fay. "The tariff wall in England and Europe is just a case of need of tariff protection for local growers against the cheaper Argentine wheat. The ban was not directed at Canadian wheat, but the higher grade grain has suffered, with the lower grade Argentine product."

"I wish to defend the Pool as a strong, stable organization, whose members are standing fully behind it. Even though many of the western farmers are so short of money that they have had to sell their seed grain in order to live, they are supporting their Pool," he said. "The division in Saskatchewan has died down and it is now less acute than in the period of low prices."

Has Sunless Winter

Like Hammerfest in Norway, Prussia has a village upon which the sun never shines during the winter. The name of the community is Forstlagswasser, and it is located in the Giant Mountains. Two mountains shelter the village from the winter sun the whole day long, so that the village has nothing but twilight in which to do its work from sunup to sunset.

Heart disease, cancer and accidents claimed more victims in 1929 than in former years.

"Do you worry about your old debts?"

"No. I forget old debts."

"What about new ones?"

"I let them get old."—Hummel, Hamburg.

TO SPEND $1,409,000
ON NATIONAL PARKS

During the year of 1930 it is estimated that the sum of $1,409,000 will be expended by the Department of the Interior on the work of the National Parks in Canada. The fiscal year of the Department ends March 31st and the estimate is taken from a statement issued by Hon. Charles Stewart. In 1928 the sum of $1,185,000 was spent, and in 1929 the amount was $1,345,000.

In speaking of the work which has been done and is being done by the Department in connection with the National Parks, Mr. Stewart said recently: "We have built a highway through the national park at Banff that will be a connecting link between the west coast and the prairie provinces and will complete the first national highway built across Canada. We are spending very considerable sums upon that highway, and not only that, but we have spent a very considerable sum to make accessible and improve scenic values of Banff national park, in order to encourage tourist traffic."

Mr. Stewart said that up to date they had spent in the neighborhood of $718,000 on the highway in the Rocky Mountains. In speaking of the need for thorough advertising to encourage tourist traffic, Mr. Stewart said that the tourist traffic of Canada had increased very rapidly from $90,000,000 or more until it is estimated that last year it amounted to well over $300,000,000.

In Saskatchewan the creation of a park and the provision of necessary facilities has meant an expenditure so far of something like $200,000, and it will amount to practically $500,000 before it is finished. The estimate of establishing a park in each one of the provinces is something like half a million dollars and then there is the annual upkeep.

In speaking of the contribution which is made by the federal government toward a national highway, Mr. Stewart said: "I made the statement to the Province of Alberta some years ago, when they were considering a highway through Jasper Park to connect with what was then the proposed highway to Vancouver, that they would not need to delay for the territory occupied by the Jasper National Park. I believe they intend to do so this year, and then it will be necessary to build through Jasper and connect with the highway going on down to Vancouver and to Prince Rupert. This is being done to bring tourists to Canada. We are prepared to provide the scenic attraction in national parks in every province; we are prepared to build and maintain the highways in those parks and give those facilities to the public practically free of charge."

Dry, Burning Throat Made Life Miserable

Have You These Symptoms?

"For three years I was seriously bothered by a bronchial cough. At night I would awaken with a dry irritable feeling in my throat. I couldn't cough up anything but very soon my throat got into quite an inflamed condition. Once I got CATARRHOZONE INHALER I was all right. I took it to bed, and if an attack awakened me the inhaler gave me relief. Catarrhozone has restored me and I strongly urge every one with a weak throat to use it regularly." — (Signed) J. B. Elevator Operators Must Accept Grain

Storage Reservation Not Permitted
Under Clause In New Act

Elevator operators are compelled to take in grain submitted to them by farmers when they have accommodation for it under a clause in the new Grain Act, approved by the committee on agriculture and colonization. They are not to be permitted to reserve storage space for customers in advance; but must take in grain as it is offered as long as they have room.

Discussion of this provision raised the question of the discretion of the elevator operator to refuse damp or smutty grain. Some members of the committee thought they should not be required to accept grain unsuitable for storage, thereby tying up storage facilities and preventing the movement of good grain. This question was left to stand over until a section covering it could be prepared and submitted to the committee.

KEEP THEM HAPPY BY KEEPING THEM WELL

It is natural for children to be happy, active and full of fun. When they are fretful, fussy and disinclined to play you may be sure something is wrong. Almost invariably that something lies in the digestive tract.

It is to meet the need for an absolutely safe corrective of childhood ailments that Baby's Own Tablets have been designed. They gently regulate the stomach and bowels and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay teething pains. Concerning them Mrs. W. E. Forsyth, Dover, N.B., writes:—"I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets as I know of nothing to equal them for fretful, fussy babies who are troubled with colds or sour stomach."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Rubber Overshoes For 'Planes

Lace Over Wings and Prevent Formation Of Ice

Overshoes for aeroplanes—a new method of keeping wings free of deadly ice—were announced at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.

They are a discovery in safer flying announced as a result of "successful tests" in the mid-west.

The overshoes lace over the forward edge of the wing. They are a thin layer of specially vulcanized rubber exuding continually a colorless oil which is the secret of the success. It is announced that the ice does not stick nor the oil "scrub off."

This slipperiness alone is insufficient and so the overshoes have a small hose under their striking edge. A slight pulsation of pump driven air in this hose breaks the ice as it forms on the wing edge, and so prevents air from pressing the forming ice fast against the wing.

London's Busiest Woman

Known as London's hardest-working woman, Mrs. Alice Tabrahams, a widow, has just announced that she will retire, after 25 years of public life. In the morning she works as scrubwoman in the offices of the local Labor Party; in the evening she presides over the Edmonton Education Committee or attends the Urban District Council, of which she is a member. In addition she does all her own housework and cares for the children. She says she needs a rest.

"Willie, didn't I tell you to shut that shutter?" said Willie's mother.

"The shutter's shut," replied Willie, "and I can't shut it any tighter."

"Not one cent under a dollar seventy-five, Edgar Purdie, and then I'm giving them away. But you needn't feel at all obliged to take them. That Darling girl will most likely snap 'em up. She comes from she sees one. Maybe you'd better be getting on. It's quite a ride to South Wickfield, and you've got to go back home for whatever it is you're going to."

"Whoever said I was goin' to South Wickfield?" burst from the embarrassed deacon. He was almost as red as his new tie. "Look here, Grandma Davis, don't you put those beads away. This is a—a sort of an emergency. Will you take one-fifty, just for the sake of auld lang syne?"

"Well," sighed Grandma, "seeing that you're an old friend, Edgar, and, as you said, this is a—a particular occasion, I'll let you have 'em. But you'll have to pay me cash. Giving 'em away like this I—"

"Oh, I'll pay cash!" broke in the deacon eagerly. He pulled out a wallet, deposited the amount in Grandma's hand and put the coveted possession into his pocket, buttoning his coat above it for extra safety. "Good-bye, Grandma. Seems to me you've drove an awful hard bargain, but there's times when it pays to splurge a little. You sure these beads are stylish?" he added, pausing; and at the old lady's vigorous affirmative he closed the door.

It was as well, perhaps, that he did not stay longer, for no sooner was he safely off than Charmian and the doctor burst from their retreat in the next room.

"Your granddaughter seems to be in a state verging on collapse," announced John Carter. "I had hard work to restrain her from spoiling that shrewd transaction that you have just terminated so successfully. Believe me, Grandma Davis, you would have shone as a horse trader!"

The old lady chuckled, and commented, as Charmian sank limply into the chair recently occupied by her victim.

"I donna when I've had such a good time. I wish now that I'd asked more, and made him come up on his offer slow and painful. When I remember—"

"But, Grandma," interrupted Charmian sternly, though the corners of her mouth twitched upward, "you said you'd ask a dollar, and you asked two!"

"I said I'd make him pay a dollar," corrected Grandma. "Do you suppose, child, if I'd said a dollar in the first place that he'd have given it? You don't know Edgar Purdie like I do. That's why I asked for cash. If Luella refuses him this afternoon we'd have had those beads back on our hands come night, or my name's not Davis. You can't tell me anything about Ed. Purdie, I went to school with him."

"What shall you do with your ill-gotten gains?" queried the doctor, his eyes twinkling.

Grandma looked thoughtfully from the window as she replied: "I suppose I ought to put it in the foreign mission box; but I guess it'll do full as much good helping to pay the milk man. Here, Charmian, you better take it. It's not every day that we make a dollar and a half so easily."

"We might spend it on a wedding gift for the deacon!" suggested Charmian, as she arose and took the profits of the nefarious transaction from Grandma's hand.

"Indeed, we shan't!" snapped the old lady quickly. "I gave him a present when he married his first wife, Emma Dodd, as good a woman as ever drew breath o' life. It was a silver sugar spoon, and came from Portland. Emma was real pleased with it; but six months later Edgar made her shine it up and give it to his second cousin, Etta Stone, who was getting married over at Templeton. Lizzie Baker was at the wedding and saw it with her own eyes. It was the last wedding present I ever give to Edgar Purdie, though dear knows I had chances enough as the years passed. Well! Well! We little thought when you asked Jim Bennett to get those beads, Charmian, what a good investment we were making."

"A marvelous investment, consider the fact that Jim paid for the beads himself!" laughed Charmian. "I'm going to ride with him this evening, Grandma, and shall entertain him with an account of your trip into high finance."

"You better make him promise not to tell," warned the old lady. "If Sarah Bennett got hold of it, the whole thing would be town talk by night, and like as not the deacon would sue me for damages—that is, if he could get Gam Garfield to take the case!"

"Here comes Edward Howe," she added, with a glance from the window. "He's stopped, and is staring at your new office, sonny. You might run out and see if he wants you to help cut off a leg or something. And see here! You ask him to step in a minute if he's got time. I want to tell him how I got the better of Edgar Purdie!"

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

CHAPTER X.

Two weeks had passed, busy weeks for Charmian, and not devoid of interest. With housewifely instinct she had reveled in putting the finishing touches to the young doctor's office. He heartily approved of the Java cotton for the windows; and a letter to his sister in Boston had been fruitful of results in the shape of a rug that brought an exclamation of rapture from the girl when she first saw it.

"Are you a millionaire?" she gasped when she could find her voice.

He laughed.

"Far from it! But neither am I the world's worst spendthrift, as you might think. This happens to be one of the treasures that fell to my lot when my mother died, and the old home was broken up. It's a Bokhara, and blends with those hangings as if it were made for them, doesn't it? And behold, fair lady, my sister's donation to my new quarters! Aren't they stunning?"

He held aloft a pair of beautiful brass candlesticks, while Charmian exclaimed again. They were in the office, the door wide open to let in the summer sunshine which fell across the shining brass as the girl reached for the treasures and set them on either end of the old mantel.

"I feel that Aladdin himself must be occupying the room where Grandma once kept her 'hired help,'" she remarked whimsically. "All you do is to drop a letter in the Wickfield post office, and lo! rare tapestries and antique brass descend upon us! Have your wishes always been granted with so little effort?"

To her surprise the doctor took her question seriously. He was looking down at the rug, and when he raised his eyes she saw that her careless words had struck some chord that hurt him.

"Up to a certain age, I suppose they were," he replied thoughtfully, "and yet, the possession of this rug, for instance, is not without a twinge of heartache. It means—my having it at all—that I no longer have my parents—that never again shall I see it in its accustomed place in the big living room at 'home.' It brings up memories that hurt, you see, even though I love them."

"But it is wonderful to have those memories," she said, laying an impulsive hand on his.

He squeezed her hand, and responded cheerfully: "Of course it is! But the first glimpse of that old rug brought everything back, and gave me a silly lump in the throat for just a minute. Really, it looks corking, doesn't it? And it was like Sis to send the candlesticks. Does the place suit you, Mistress Charmian?"

"Isn't it more to the point to ask if it suits you?" laughed the girl as she wiped some dust from the old mantel.

"You know without the asking. It's perfect; and, thanks to your feminine touch, even the waiting room looks livable."

"Those thanks are really due to the wicker chairs you sent for," she corrected. "Yes, I'm satisfied. It looks—Why, here's the doctor!" she broke off suddenly. "Come in, Doctor Howe, and pass judgment on the finished product of our labor."

The old man stepped inside, looking about with shrewd, appraising eyes.

"Not much like my first office," he commented. "It was a room over the old drug store, hot as blazes in summer, and proportionately cold when the snow fell. You're a lucky man, John Carter, with a place like this, and Charmian Davis to look after you!"

"I realize that," responded the young M.D., with a glance at Charmian that brought new color to her cheeks. "At least, I shall have a pleasant place to cool my heels in while waiting for the trusting public to employ me. Do you want my company this morning, sir?"

"That's why I stopped. I need your young enthusiasm to throw light on a case that's been bothering me for weeks. Want to go with us, Charmian? It's a beautiful morning for a ride."

The girl looked longingly through the open doorway, but answered: "I couldn't, really. I've a thousand and one things to do this morning. What time shall you be back? If a patient appears in your absence, Doctor Carter, I'll keep him here if I have to sit on him!"

"We'll be back at noon time," chuckled the old doctor; and as they started John Carter turned to wave farewell to the girl who stood in the doorway of his new office.

Charmian waited there until the shabby car vanished down the elm-shaded street, then turned back to the room behind her, looking down at the Oriental rug with eyes that drank thirstily of its beauty.

Little Helps For This Week

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." — Psalm xvi. 1.

Console thyself with His word of grace,

And cease thy wail of woe;
For His mercy never an equal hath,
And His love no bounds can know.

Lean close unto Him in faith and hope;

How many like thee have found

In Him a shelter and home of peace.

By His mercy compassed round!

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

Where but in Thee have we a covert from storm, or shadow from the heat of life? In our manifold temptations Thou alone knowest, and art ever nigh; in sorrow Thy pity revives the fainting soul; in our prosperity and ease it is Thy Spirit only that can wean us from pride and keep us low.—James Mantineau.

Future Of Television

Great Possibilities Are Foreseen By Earl Of Clarendon

The Earl of Clarendon, former chairman of the British Broadcasting Corporation, foresees "staggering possibilities" for television.

He says: "When it is possible to present a stage play or a national event such as the Derby on a small screen which a family or perhaps a small audience in a hall can see, then television will go like wildfire."

While we have some distance to travel before that goal can be achieved enough progress has been made to suggest that it may be attained within the next few years.

The Graf Zeppelin hereafter will be a paying guest when it visits the United States. During its forthcoming stay the German ship will be quartered at a rate of $2,000 a day in the big "hotel" at Lakehurst, N.J., naval base.

Other items on the bill include: $3,000 for preparing the base, $1,000 a day for keeping the base in readiness, dating from the hour of the expected arrival, and $50,000 insurance. A deposit of $15,000 covering all charges, will be exacted. It will be the first time the government has ever levied a bill against any foreign aircraft for accommodation at a U.S. naval base.

Minister, Run-Down In Health, Gains 7 lbs. in 3 Weeks

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes: "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run-down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironized Yeast a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again."

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny" tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blenched skin clears.

Only when yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Mothers' Day Service

"A beautiful service" was the expression used by many, at the close of the Mothers' Day service in the Evangelical Church last Sunday evening. The whole atmosphere seemed to be hallowed by the spirit of the occasion. The choir sang "My Mother's Bible," with very pleasing effect, and the sermon, based on the fifth commandment was received by young and old with more than ordinary appreciation.

Flowers of all kinds were in abundance, among them being a select bouquet of carnations donated by the Ladies Aid in honor of our mothers. At the conclusion of the sermon, the pastor made reference to this special bouquet and then had it presented to the oldest mother and member of the Ev. Church, who he named as Mrs. Wm. Hunsperger, aged 82. Along with her, little Harold Fegg, aged 6, was also invited to the platform, where he very-gracefully presented the bouquet to Mrs. Hunsperger, his great-aunt.

While the pastor was making a few remarks and the giving and receiving of the bouquet was taking place, the whole congregation suddenly arose in honor and the next moment, with tears in many eyes, a spontaneous song swelled forth from more than 150 voices: "Blest be the tie that binds" —Contributed.
